

BEER TAX WON'T BALANCE BUDGET MILLS DECLARES

TREASURY HEAD URGES PASSAGE OF SALES TAX

Committee Prepares A Bill To Modify The Volstead Act

Washington, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Denied the administration's official views on beer and confronted by Secretary Mills' demand for a sales tax to balance the budget, the House today means committee prepared today to submit a bill to modify the Volstead act.

Repeated efforts by committee members to extract from the cabinet officer any indication as to whether President Hoover would sign a bill to legalize beer ended fruitlessly in the most spectacular and heated session of a full week of hearings on the Democratic revenue proposal.

Drawing freely upon his oratorical ability, Mills declared the beer measure, if enacted, would not alone balance the budget and estimated revenue from it would be between $125,000,000 and $150,000,000 the first year, as compared with estimates of other witnesses that it would exceed $200,000,000.

Need Revenue.

The treasury chieflain pleaded for enactment at this session of a "non-partisan" program to provide revenue to meet federal expenditures.

"The time has come to bring the federal budget into balance in the sense that there will be no further increase in the public debt," Mills said in asserting that a general sales tax was the only means of accomplishing this purpose that he knew of.

At the conclusion of his formal statement Mills was asked by Representative Rainey, of Illinois, Democratic floor leader:

"Will President Hoover sign the bill?"

Mr. Rainey, you know no one asks for the president," the secretary replied.

"Do you favor the bill?"

"I am not here to present the president's views or the administration's views," Mr. Rainey said. "I am here to express my personal opinion." He said he was present to discuss only the revenue phases of the legislation and not to pass on its social or constitutional questions.

Mills' testimony and examination consumed the entire morning session during which he engaged in several sharp exchanges with Rainey and other members of the committee over the administration's proposed sales tax.

Chairman Collier plans to call the committee together tomorrow in executive session to revise the bill. He said he hoped it would be reported to the House for action next Tuesday.

A second effort is to be made tomorrow by Senator Blaine, (R., Wis.), to call the judiciary subcommittee together to consider drafting of a resolution to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

NO CROOK IS BRAINY "KID" WEIL CLAIMS

Notorious Swindler And Lieutenant Are Arrested

St. Louis, Dec. 14.—(AP)—"Yellow Kid" Weil, swindler of international notoriety, expanded to St. Louis authorities today his theory that no crook is brainy, not even himself.

"If I were," he explained, "I would know how to make money without the law. The fact is regrettable, but none the less true."

Weil and his lieutenant, Fred Buckminster, were arrested here today at the request of Kansas City authorities who desire to examine some purported bonds the pair left in a suitcase in Kansas City. "Kans." City officers said some of the bonds purported to be a "municipal" issue by Riverside, Ill., a Chicago postal station, and that they desired to ascertain whether the bonds are genuine or spurious.

The "Yellow Kid" immediately attracted in a crowd of spots and black shoes, and Buckminster, wearing a homburg hat, gray suit and spats, pleasantly agreed to go to the police station. There Weil discussed with Chief of Detectives Robert Kaiser, his long record as a swindler, which he said he simply hid behind him and was "going straight."

Chief Kaiser was at first under the impression the men were wanted for bank robbery.

"We wanted for bank robbery?" Weil asked with a discreet laugh.

"Chief, surely you are joking. We haven't been embroiled in crime for two years, and certainly not that sort of thing."

A newspaper reporter asked Weil how he made his money. "We are content with a salary $110 to $200 a week," Weil explained, "how do we make it simply by getting a certain residue, putting it into the crucible and collecting the gold. You will pardon me if I go no further into details. The plan is not substantially different from those used by various investment brokers."

"Weil, his sobriquet by reason of a luxuriant crop of pinkish yellow whiskers, has long since shaved them off."

"Senator J. Ham Lewis complained that he was often mistaken for me," he explained, "so I shaved my whiskers and now content myself with a mustache."

A miscellaneous shower was given Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Morris west of the city, honoring Miss Aileen Fearey, who is soon to become the bride of Edward Lawless.

The hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Morris and Miss Opal Worrall. Miss Fearey received many useful gifts, and at a late hour refreshments were served.

Those present included Misses Fearey, Leitha Schiffield, Virginia Heath, Mildred Cox, Opal Worrall, Helen Fearey, Aileen Heaton, Janet Angelo, Mattie Roach, Irene Todd, Edward Lawless, Herschel Heaton, Gerald Heaton, Harold Watt, Harold Hammel, Edward Morris, Kenneth Morris, Reat Schiffield, Russell Fearey, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Helena, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jewsbury and son, Russell Eugene.

PRESIDENT'S APPOINTMENTS ARE BLOCKED

Democrats Are Aided By Independents In Senate

Washington, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Senate Democrats successfully raised their promised barrier against the confirmation of President Hoover's appointees today and then dropped it long enough to permit approval of Roy D. Chapin of Michigan as secretary of commerce.

Of course, Chapin goes on on March 1 with the Hoover cabinet. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, explained that appointees who would serve beyond that time would not be considered.

He spoke with authority. The Senate by vote of 44 to 37 had just rejected the motion of Senator McNary, of Oregon, assistant Republican leader, that the Senate go into executive session for consideration of nominations.

This roll call was believed to end the issue. The test showed the Senate divided almost strictly on party lines. Senators LaFollette and Blaine, of Wisconsin, Republicans, voted with the Democrats.

The influence of the November elections was also shown in farm legislation before the House agricultural committee. The domestic allotment plan represented as having the support of President-Elect Roosevelt was given the united endorsement of farm leaders.

By 40 to 38, the Senate voted to free the Philippines in eight years, but their domestic bill involving a parliamentary tangle over a motion to reconsider that further action was postponed until tomorrow.

The decision gave approval to an amendment by Senator Broussard, D., La., striking the heart out of the Hayes-Carter bill granting independence in 18 years and created such confusion that sponsors of independence now do not look for a final vote until the end of the week.

Some senators, including Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, took the stand that the vote recast under a misapprehension and that reconsideration was necessary.

They pointed out that the Broussard amendment not only reduced the pre-independence probation period by ten years but also struck out of the Senate bill the five year application of export taxes in the islands to go toward paying their bonded independence and the provision for an independence plebiscite at the end of the trial period.

Critical comments on President Hoover's plans for government reorganizing arose in the House expenditures committee and indicated that a resolution to disapprove the changes Mr. Hoover proposes will receive strong support from the group.

The committee heard testimony from J. Clarkson Reop, director of the budget, on the reorganizations. In answer to a question by Chairman Cochran, Reop said it would be wiser, in his personal opinion, to leave the reorganizing to the incoming administration.

MORE CHILDREN TO BENEFIT BY CHRISTMAS FUND

Little Brothers and Sisters of School Children Will Receive Packages

More children than ever before will receive gifts this year as a result of the generosity of the people of Jacksonville, and consequently more money has been spent in past years than will be available this year. Early reports by the committee of teachers in charge of finding the homes where Christmas packages will be left were that a larger number of homes will be without Christmas this year unless someone takes a hand and makes it possible to give packages to these homes.

Not only will school children receive gifts from the fund, but little brothers and sisters, too young to enter school, will be remembered with toys and fruit, and possibly some other special gifts.

It was pointed out that the entire project can be carried out for $200; a figure which has been reached as the result of parting here and there on the items listed in the budget.

Christmas is the time for children, and this Christmas is no different from any other Christmas. The children are looking ahead to the day with as much enthusiasm as it was greeted last year and the year before that. Some of them have faith that Santa Claus will not forget them, while others are not as positive, but would be disappointed beyond expression if they failed to find a gift on Christmas morning, when they jump out of bed.

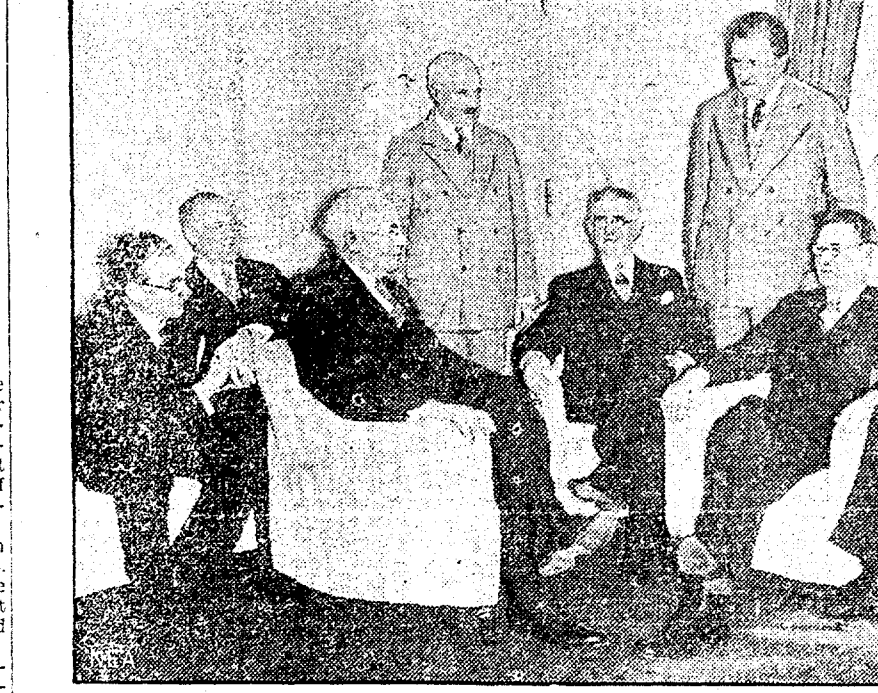

It was to cement that faith that Uncle Sammy Nichols left a trust fund to provide cheer on Christmas for the children who otherwise would not have cause to be merry on that day of days. The belief in the spirit of Christmas as personified through Santa Claus still exists, but the fund left to perpetuate that belief is not available.

Fund receipts fell off rapidly yesterday causing some fear that the goal might not be reached. As soon as the goal is reached the drive will be closed.

When liquor was forbidden in Russia in war time, a chemist in a small town advertised to make one legally drunk for a rouble. And he did. He gave a dose of yeast and immediately after a large drink of "kvass," an innocuous beverage, the combination producing an internal rapid and vigorous fermentation.

Mrs. R. E. Rush, of Pittsfield, was a Wednesday shopper in Jacksonville.

Railroad executives are meeting in Chicago with labor leaders in an attempt to extend the 10 per cent "voluntary" pay cut taken by railroad workers last year, and which expires Jan. 31. Railroad executives shown here are, left to right: C. D. McKay, assistant vice president, the Southern; H. A. Enoch, personnel chief, the Pennsylvania; J. T. Gillick, vice president, the Milwaukee; C. W. Galloway, vice president, the B. & O.; P. R. Albright, vice president, the Atlantic Coast Line; W. J. Jenks, vice president, the Norfolk & Western; W. F. Thiehoff, general manager, the Burlington, and J. G. Walber, vice president, the New York Central.

Waits 16 Years to See Father, Then he Fails to Show Up

Chicago, Dec. 14.—(AP)—For 16 long years Mary Elizabeth Lax waited to see her father, Carl E. Lax, former assistant superintendent of a foundry company. Today she thought she would get to see him for the first time.

Mary Elizabeth went to court with her mother, who wanted to know why Lax was behind in alimony payments levied at their divorce about the time Mary Elizabeth was born. The former husband failed to show up.

"I really wanted to see him," said Mary Elizabeth. "All the other girls at school talk about their fathers. I wanted to see mine so I could talk about him too."

The court ordered the sheriff to serve a summons on Lax to appear.

CERMAK'S DRIVE ON GANGSTERS IS SUCCESSFUL

1,000 Resorts Have Been Closed By Officers

Chicago, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Mayor Anton J. Cermak's crusade against crime was extended today to include gangsters who mask their activities as legitimate businesses.

Meanwhile, police announced finding of clues in several of a dozen killings committed since the anti-crime campaign started four days ago. Today's toll from crime was two shot, one of them probably fatally.

Operators of liquor, gambling resorts were reported "on the move" and police officials estimated 1,000 such places had been closed. It was they said, the most effective drive in the history of Chicago. The mayor said it would be unceasing.

Assertedly determined to keep beef if it becomes legal, out of the hands of the hoodlums, Cermak ordered police to investigate every amusement house, restaurant and other place in the city licensed to sell malted beverages.

He believed hoodlums and dangerous characters are operating places licensed to supposedly reputable citizens, Cermak said. "In one instance, we found Alford Stook, a well known safe blower, operating a gambling house in the guise of a tavern that had been licensed to a Joseph Maroney."

A declaration that speakeasies and gambling houses are operated unmolested "all over the city" came from Police Captain Albert Christensen, who was suspended after a policeman had been killed in an alleged liquor resort in his district.

Christensen said he would "demand fair treatment" from Mayor Cermak, adding that every police captain deserved suspension as much as he.

Edwin O. Schildhauer, 28 year old band leader and victim of the mysterious of the killings, was buried today and shortly thereafter police announced they had uncovered "definite clues" in the case. Police Captain John Stege said he had learned Schildhauer shot to death in an automobile and his body left in a desolate section of Cicero had been threatened for weeks before his death.

Today's double shooting left Frank Richardson, 23, near death in a hospital tonight. He and John Foreman, 45, a wealthy realtor, were shot when they grappled with two robbers who attempted to torture them and learn the whereabouts of money they believed hidden in Foreman's apartment.

QUICK RELIEF FOR FARMERS IS DEMANDED

Enactment Of Domestic Allotment Plan Is Asked

Washington, Dec. 14.—(AP)—United on three guiding principles, representatives of organized agriculture carried to the capital today a demand for immediate relief of the farmer through enactment of the voluntary domestic allotment plan.

Leaders of the groups crowded into the house agriculture committee's rooms to hear their designated spokesmen. Frederick T. Lee, outline the agreement after two days and nights of conferences.

Such organizations as the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange, the Farmers Union, the Farmers National Livestock association and the American Cotton Cooperative association were represented.

In Agreement

"We are in unanimous agreement on certain fundamental principles," Lee testified. "They are:

"That the legislation in question should be administered by the department of agriculture; that it should cover the four basic commodities—wheat, cotton, tobacco and hogs; and that the committee should frame their pre-war parity with other commodity prices."

The first two of these were embodied in the domestic allotment plan submitted to the committee yesterday by Chairman Jones. But where the farm groups would have benefited paid way to maintain the desired parity, the Jones bill fixed the benefit at 42 cents a bushel for wheat, 5 cents a pound for cotton, 4 cents a pound for tobacco and 2 cents a pound for hogs.

Addressing himself to the 1933 wheat, cotton and tobacco crops, Lee recommended producers to paid a benefit to bring prices to the desired parity, but only on the domestic commodity, and if they reduce acreage 20 per cent.

STATE DEMANDS DEATH PENALTY FOR J. VARECHA

Judge John Prystalski To Sentence Youth Friday Afternoon

Chicago, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The state today formally demanded the life of James "Lefty" Varecha, 17 year old confessed killer and robber, whose attorney pleaded that his career of crime was the inevitable result of a life devoid of opportunity and shadowed by poverty and mental illness.

Judge John H. Prystalski announced after the closing arguments that he would sentence the youth Friday afternoon. Varecha has pleaded guilty to murder for slaying Frank Jordan, 38, during a holdup a month ago.

"Anything less than the death penalty would be a travesty on justice and a moral victory for the defendant," declared Assistant State Attorney Walter Butler. "Anything less than the supreme penalty would be an encouragement to rampant crime, a sign that there is no safety for mothers of this community."

Attorney Joseph Novek, for the defense, sketched Varecha's background of poverty and limited opportunity and his two sentences to the state institution for mental defectiveness at Dixon, from which he twice escaped.

Novek blamed the police for not arresting Varecha after he had escaped from the Dixon institution last August.

Through the hour of closing arguments, Varecha sprawled lazily in his chair. Only occasionally did he seem to take any interest in the proceedings.

RAIL MANAGERS SERVE NOTICE ON EMPLOYEES

Reductions In Basic Rates Will Be Con- sidered

By Lathrop Mack
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The railroads served notice upon their 1,150,000 employees today that the next time they discuss wages it would involve reductions in basic rates and would be held under the legal process of the Railway Labor Act.

Spokesmen for the 47 class one carriers of the country, conferring jointly with 1,500 labor leaders, answered a demand that they propose an extension of temporary pay cuts to a permanent basis. They suggested that the current agreement, a ten per cent reduction which left the basic rates unchanged, be extended from next Jan. 31 to July 31.

But they specified that neither side should propose a change in the agreement prior to July 1, and that any change of termination after that date should affect the basic rates of pay and be negotiated under the 1926 Railway Labor Act.

Leaders of the shop crafts debated the proposal in secret session tonight. Their reply was to be delivered tomorrow morning.

They faced a reminder by the carriers that the committee headed by W. F. Thiehoff, general manager of the Burlington line and conference chairman for the managements, had recommended a 20 per cent slash in the basic wage rates last fall but withheld serving notice of it in hope of better times.

They also had in mind the frequent references of the roads to mediation under the act of congress, a long and expensive process.

Labor, however, had a similar chance to use the length and costliness of mediation proceedings as a weapon against the carriers in its rate of pay. The old pay standards will be restored automatically on Feb. 1 barring an agreement to the contrary, and they could not be disturbed during mediation until the federal board had reached a decision. It might take months.

"The carriers today suggested that the deduction remain in effect after next July 31 until changed by the Federal board," labor leaders said.

Section six, suggested by the carriers, would require the managements to pay wages during mediation, but either side must give 30 days notice of proposed changes in wages—down by capital or up by labor, or in rules of working conditions.

The managements have said that adding $100,000,000 next year to its operating expenses by restoring the old pay schedules would be disastrous to themselves and to the country.

Labor has said wage cutting must stop.

The roads reiterated today their aversion to further joint conference with labor pay cuts as the present conference and agreement.

Frank D. Whipp Denounces Acts Of His "Boys"

Joliet, Ill., Dec. 14.—(AP)—"Almost as crude as college fraternity boys!" Warden Frank D. Whipp today flung this bitter denunciation at inmates of Stateville's prison's honor farm "dorm" scene last night of a "title of the ether" in which prisoners conducted themselves in a most unseemly manner.

Every man in the dormitory has been allowed his own radio set which had worked out very well, Warden Whipp said. "I saw that the boys conceived the idea of tuning in all radios at once."

This was unbearable to one man, a true lover of music, and he hurled his radio across the corridor. The air was filled with radios immediately.

"Very ungentlemanly," said the warden today, announcing that repetition of the disorder would result in the inmates being deprived of their sets.

Thomas Buchanan, of Bluffs, was a business caller in the city Wednesday.

BELGIUM AND FRANCE WILL NOT PAY UP

Poland Has Not Yet Reached Decision On Payment

By The Associated Press

England, America's largest European debtor, has decided to pay in gold the December 15 debt installment. Italy already has paid. France and Belgium have decided not to pay and Poland has not yet reached a decision.

In London the chancellor of the exchequer told parliament default on this payment was unthinkable, that arrangements have been made with the federal reserve bank to meet it, and that this default was not to be interpreted as meaning a return to the debt system in operation before the Hoover moratorium.

France was without a government. Premier Herriot having been overthrown by the chamber of deputies. He sent word to Washington that he can carry on only current affairs now and that it will be up to the next government to continue the debt negotiations.

At Rome there was an announcement that Italy already had paid the $1,245,437 interest installment she owed.

In Brussels a new government was in the process of formation by Count De Broqueville, who resigned as premier after the cabinet had decided unanimously to refuse payment of the $2,125,000 installment.

The Polish government announced that it had not yet reached a final decision on its policy. Poland owes an installment of $3,303,000.

Martinique, Germany is merely an onlooker. A government spokesman said that since it is impossible to return to the Young plan anyway, it matters little to Germany what happens as a consequence of the French refusal to pay.

There was an announcement at Budapest that the government, which participated in the Lausanne conference had granted a three months extension of its eastern relations, moratorium.

There was no comment from the state department at Washington on the French refusal to pay, but members of congress expressed indignation at the attitude of the French chamber of deputies.

A recent issue of The Postal Bulletin issued by the Post Office Department at Washington, D. C., reads as follows:

Printed Christmas cards mailed under cover of unsealed envelopes are chargeable with postage at the third-class rate of 1 1/2 cents for each two ounces or fraction of two ounces, regardless of whether addressed for delivery through post offices or general delivery, or by city or rural carrier.

Printed Christmas and other greeting cards in unsealed envelopes may bear a simple written inscription not in the nature of personal correspondence, such as "Season's Greetings," "Merry Christmas," "Happy New Year," "With Best Wishes," etc., together with the name and address of the sender and of the addressee, without subjecting them to more than the third-class rate.

Greeting cards, sealed or unsealed, bearing written messages other than the simple inscriptions above mentioned, as well as all cards sent in sealed envelopes, are chargeable with postage at the first-class rate of three cents an ounce or fraction of an ounce.

Generous Response

The response of the people of this city to the Journal-Courier's appeal for money to replace the Nichols Christmas fund for this year has been most generous. The $150 income from the Nichols Foundation usually spent to give poor children of this city a Merry Christmas, was lost in the failure of the Avera National Bank. The Journal-Courier wished to keep on the good work which Mr. Nichols started and apparently the people of this city had the same wish.

They have given with open hand to the fund which had reached the necessary $150 last night and to which the boxing tourney will add materially. But the people of Jacksonville subscribed the fund and to them goes the credit and the praise for its continuance. The people gave of their little, for many a home in this city has been stricken with loss of income and savings by the bank crash. Even so, the people kept a tender spot in their hearts for the children who would have no Christmas happiness unless it was provided from outside their own cheerless homes. Suffering, bereavement, sympathy, always the man who thinks his trouble is the greatest can look about and find someone worse off than himself. Jacksonville has looked this year upon Christmas with only an empty name. Were it not for the kindness of others, Jacksonville has risen to the occasion and in so doing has demonstrated her ability to hold out the helping hand, even tho her people have been stripped of money which would otherwise have made this a prosperous Christmas for the city.

McFadden on Deck

Louis McFadden of Pennsylvania is irrefragable. He could not be satisfied with offering impeachment resolutions against Andrew Mellon, late secretary of the treasury, but he had to include President Hoover in his malice. He based his charges on Mr. Hoover's action in the debt moratorium proceeding.

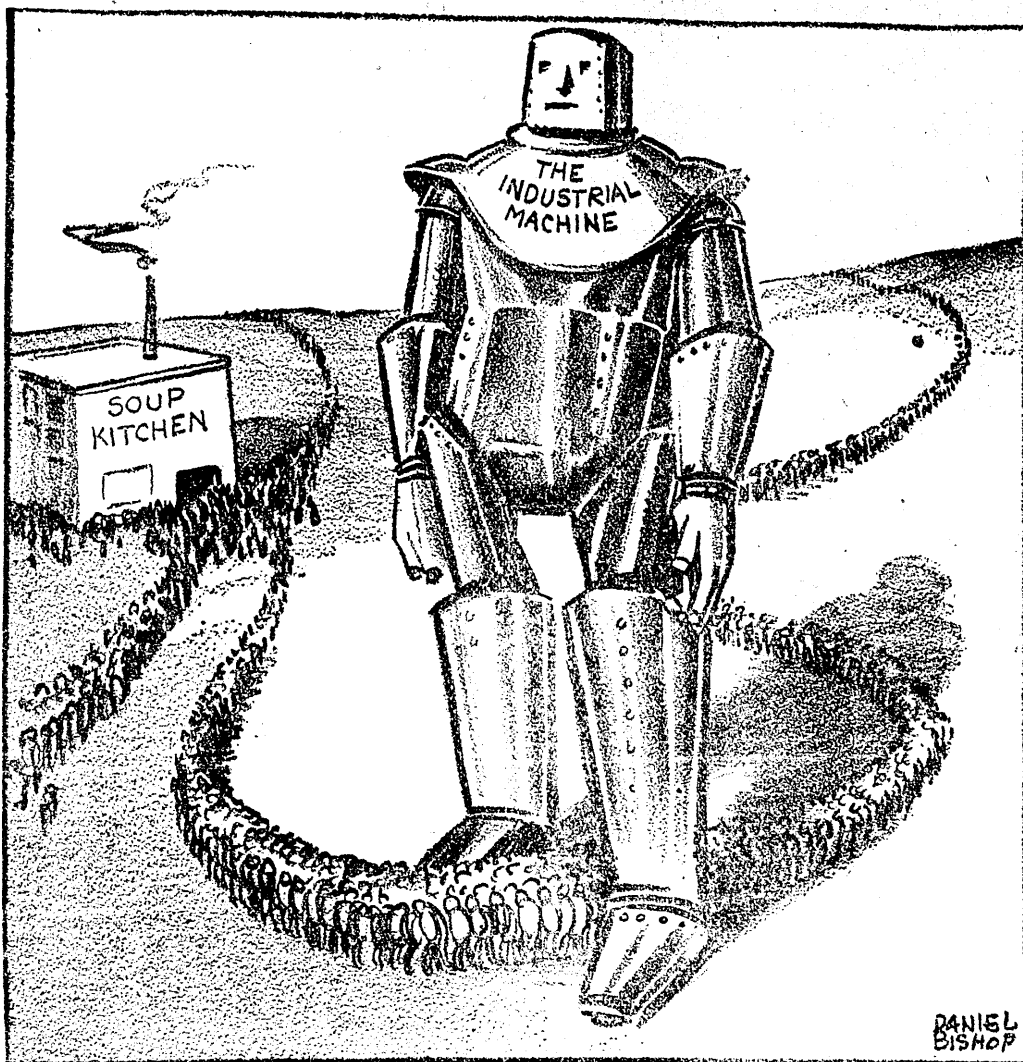

The move was grossly unjust and unfair in the light of events subsequent to that unfortunate moratorium business. Whatever mistakes the president made in engineering that plan, he has since eradicated and expunged from his record. In his handling of the ticklish debt situation, he has strictly adhered to the desires of Congress, and today two nations stand as debtors on debt payments because the administration refused to allow any further dallying.

Mr. Hoover thought he was right in the moratorium plan and it has been shown that the quick move did save what might have been a world collapse. Public sentiment was red hot against the moratorium, and after Congress showed its hand, the administration fell into step and presented a firm front to every effort to secure cancellation or reduction or postponement of the debts.

and that to itself was a real task. No group of men ever had such powerful influence exerted upon them to deviate from the policy of the people. International bankers, slick foreign diplomats, world economic conditions were lined up against the administration in its fight to make our debtors understand that they must pay. McFadden showed a narrow prejudice and a lack of judgment seldom seen on the floor of Congress. Either he does not appreciate the President's loyalty to the people in handling the war debt situation, or he has deliberately refused to recognize the facts. Fortunately there are few men in Congress like him, and the venomous assault on the President was repelled with promptness and vigor.

10 Christmas Cards, 10c LANE'S BOOK STORE

MUST KEEP RED CROSS TO SECURE FEDERAL RELIEF

In order to secure the benefits of government relief for this county some sort of organization must be maintained. Thus far this county has received everything for which the Red Cross chapter has asked, including flour and clothing sufficient for 500 families.

The Red Cross performs numerous services and has saved the county many a dollar it would have otherwise expended in charity. The national organization through county chapters distributes flour and clothing, bearing all the administrative expenses.

The Morgan chapter has secured thousands of yards of cloth and has ordered hundreds of ready-made garments. Another shipment of about four car loads of flour is due here now, which is the third big order the county has received since the government began distribution of the flour made from Farm Bureau wheat.

The Red Cross also sends needy disabled ex-service men to government hospitals. Twelve were sent away during November. This means a great saving to the county in hospital bills and medical expenses. The claims of ex-service men for pensions, bonus, compensation, etc., are also handled through the Red Cross, which means that this organization helps these men to get money into the county to pay their bills. Rents are being paid right now with money paid by the government to ex-service men rents, grocery bills, etc., which could not otherwise be collected.

These are some of the reasons why the county should maintain some sort of Red Cross organization, which can be done only through the contribution of money for memberships. The Red Cross is one of the agencies participating in the Community Chest.

SCHOOLS CLOSE AT ARENZVILLE BECAUSE OF FLU

Arenzville, Dec. 14.—An epidemic of influenza which has spread into many homes in this village has made it necessary to close the Arenzville grade and public schools. Students and teachers, as well as other citizens, are suffering alike with the ailment, caused it is believed by the sudden change in weather conditions.

The high school instructors, Homer Dahman, Lawrence Kemp and Miss Florence Munsen, are confined to their homes with the disease, as are a large number of students. So many of the children were forced to stay away from the classrooms that it was considered practical to close the schools until such time as the sick have recovered.

Many social events scheduled for last week and the coming week have been postponed because of the epidemic. The community program was to have been held under the auspices of the Woman's club at the Methodist church last night was called off, as was several other social events.

Mrs. L. C. Doyle, of Roodhouse, was shopping in the city Wednesday.

Comfortable Homes. Always Have a Bedside Telephone

Do you still leave your nice warm bed to make chill trips to answer late hour telephone calls? And perhaps stub your toe, and ruin both the furniture and your disposition?

Don't put up with this inconvenience. You can have an extension telephone placed right beside your bed. It costs very, very little.

Besides, a bedside telephone will give you a sense of protection at night, too. And if you are ever ill, you find it's almost indispensable. Just call our office and we'll arrange for it. On many an occasion hereafter, you'll be glad you did.

HURRY!

You can hurry through with your morning shave if you use the rust-resisting "BLUE BLADE." In the first place this blade is hard enough to cut glass. The steel is especially tempered to take and hold edges of phenomenal keenness. Easy, once-over strokes shave your face clean. You don't need to go back against the grain of the beard. When you are through shaving simply loosen the razor handle and hold the blade under hot water—that's all. The "BLUE BLADE" is then clean and spotless—ready for use the next time. This is one of many reasons why you get unequalled convenience and comfort with the "BLUE BLADE." Try it and see.

No package contains genuine "BLUE BLADES" unless it carries the portrait of King C. Gillette.

FOR CHRISTMAS—Ask your dealer to show you our special Gift Box containing 100 "BLUE BLADES." You pay for the blades alone. The handsome cigarette or jewel case—rich mahogany color—is free.

WHAT do I want for Christmas?
Incense and gold and myrrh
Wisemen left on a stable floor?
Oh no—I much prefer
CANDLES for each night's lighting,
Faith as the days go on,
Courage to walk a too-high hill,
After its lure is gone.
TOUCH of your arms, close-clinging,
Lift of your laugh, your eyes
Shining with gay, glad magic
Under the dark blue skies.
WHAT do I want for Christmas?
Things that you never see
Wrapped up in tissue paper
Under a twisted tree!

The TINYMITES

The pilot of the airship said, "Now, Tinytes, we'll sail straight ahead for about a mile or two and then I'll start to gain some height."

"I'm very sure that pretty soon we will be riding neatly the moon. I hope you do not mind that we are going to ride all night."

"Each one of you can take a nap. I promise there'll be no mishap. I've run this ship all over and it's safe as it can be."

"Enjoy the trip, now, while you can. There's lots of scenery to scan. Don't worry 'bout a single thing. Just leave it all to me."

"That's fair enough," said Scouty. "You should know just what you ought to do. If you need help, here's Windy. He's an aviation lad."

"He's driven planes both here and there and he's traveled far in the air. Whenever he can lend a hand, Scouty will make him glad."

The pilot then said, "I will keep the ship in air. I never sleep. I thank you for the offer, but I won't need any aid."

"There's lots to gain and naught to lose if you all take a little snooze. When you wake up you'll be surprised at what good time I've made."

The bunch soon was in slumberland. At dawn the pilot clapped his hand on Scouty's back and shouted, "Hey, wake up, you Tinymites!"

"We're near the place where we are bound, where lots of nice things will be found. I want you all real wide awake so you can see the sights."

The ship then dipped and whirled around and then it landed on the ground. The Tinytes spied an elf who sat beneath the great big gate.

"Good-morning, Tinytes! Santa Claus, the Tinytes meet Santa Claus in the next story."

FAIR OFFICIALS OF STATE MEET TO SEEK FUNDS

A. D. Arnold, president, E. S. Collins, treasurer, and R. E. Welch, secretary, of the Morgan County Fair Association, and C. F. Corington went to Springfield Wednesday to attend a special meeting of the Illinois Association of County Fairs. The meeting was held at the St. Nicholas hotel. The county fair officials over the state are endeavoring to get an additional appropriation of $52,000 to pay off deficits from the 1932 county fairs. It seems the money is already on hand for this purpose, having been collected in race track license fees. However, an act of the legislature will be necessary to make the money available. The Morgan county association will need $5,000 to complete balancing of accounts for the 1932 exhibition, and with the view of obtaining this money the fair officials are participating in the general movement of the state association.

W. G. JAQUSS FORMER LOCAL RESIDENT DIES

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 14.—(P)—The story of a Yankee boy who came South with the Union Army and remained after the close of hostilities to become one of Mississippi's most popular "Southern Gentlemen" is the record left by "Colonel" W. G. Jaquess who died yesterday at Tunica, Miss.

Too young to enlist as a regular, he followed his father, Colonel James P. Jaquess of Jacksonville, Ill., as drummer boy for the 37th Illinois Infantry, of which the father was commanding officer.

After the war the family moved to Mississippi. As evidence of young Jaquess' popularity, he was elected Tax Assessor after the "Carpet Bag Days." From that time on he served Tunica county in some official capacity until six months ago when ill health forced his retirement as City Clerk, and friends bestowed on him the title of "Colonel."

"Lifting the ordinary farm tractor out of the class it has long occupied as an implement of rather limited farm usefulness, the new Goodyear Pneumatic Farm Tractor tire makes an all-purpose unit of it," says Fred German, president of German Motor Co., Inc., Jacksonville distributors. "enabling the farmer to use it on the highways, where until now steel tired tractors have been banned because of the damage they do to hard road surfaces. "Though introduced but a few months ago, farm tractor tires have swept the agricultural sections of the country like wildfire and have been a strong attraction at corn-husking, block shows, fairs and similar events. The new tire on tests recently staged enabled the farmer to plow by tractor over 25 per cent more acreage of land at a saving of nearly one-fourth in fuel and at an increase of nearly 37 per cent in plowing speed, because the All-Weather Tread of these big pneumatics gives better traction and releases more horsepower for actual work than is possible with a steel wheeled equipped tractor. "In a test demonstration held recently, a steel-wheeled tractor was plowing at two or three miles per hour, and the plows were set deep until the tractor stalled. The steel-wheeled tractor was ten unhooked and a duplicate model machine equipped with Goodyear Farm Tractor tires was hitched in its place and pulled the stalled plow out, continuing the plowing operation in the same field at five miles per hour. "There are more than a million tractors on farms in the country, many of which can be changed over to these new pneumatic farm tractor tires. "Some model tractors now in use have a fourth gear, heretofore but little used because tractors have been barred from highways. With the use of farm tractor tires this gear can be unlocked, giving the tractor a speed of fifteen miles per hour on the road. "At Galva, Ill., during the national corn husking contest, Goodyear Farm Tractor tire equipped tractors were in demand pulling corn-loaded farm wagons around the muddy fields. "Another important feature of the farm tractor tire is the comfort they introduce into tractor operation, giving riding comfort and sparing the operator the back-breaking jolts and

COLLEGE SPLITS GAMES LAST NIGHT

Win From Murrayville in Opener 45 to 22, But Lose to State Hospital 29 to 27 on Liberty Hall Court.

Illinois College's basketball talent won one game and dropped the second in a double header played last night at Liberty Hall, defeating the Murrayville Indians 45 to 22 in the opening game, and then losing to the State Hospital Redjacks seniors in the feature game 29 to 27. Coach Van Meter shifted his men about freely in the game, attempting to get a line on all of his material.

The Blueboys led the Redjacks 16 to 11 at the end of the first half, but when the substitutes took the court they slipped up defensively and before the varsity players were returned to the court, the Redjacks had a lead of six points. The varsity was sent back into the game and came up to within two points of the State Hospital club, and missed several chances to win the game in the closing minutes.

The starting line up for the Blueboys was Buck, Hirth, Willett, Pearce, and Pearce, with the remainder of the line-up entering during the second half. In the second string game Clarence Smith led the scoring with 16 points for the Blueboys and Gellier led Murrayville with 10 points.

JUDD PROMISES REVELATION IN TRUNK MURDERS

Husband Says He Will Tell All To Save Wife From Death

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 14.—(AP)—A skeptical county authorities awaited today to hear the "true story" of the killing of two women from the lips of Dr. William C. Judd, husband of Winnie Ruth Judd, convicted "trunk murderer" under sentence to be hanged Feb. 17.

Dr. Judd, who was expected to arrive today from Prescott, said he would "tell all" to Sheriff J. R. McFadden in an attempt to save his wife.

"If Dr. Judd has any new facts," said the sheriff, "we will be glad to hear them. It seems a bit strange he did not come to the aid of his wife before this."

Mrs. Judd was convicted of murdering Mrs. Agnes Ann LeRoy. She also was charged with killing Miss Hedwig Samuelson. Both women were slain in a Phoenix bungalow Oct. 17, 1931, their bodies dismembered and sent to Los Angeles in trunks where the crime was discovered when Mrs. Judd called to claim them at the depot.

"When I tell the whole truth of this case," Dr. Judd said in Prescott last night, "there will be another person in a prison cell and Ruth Judd will stand exonerated of this crime of which she has been accused and convicted."

O. V. Wilson, chief of Mrs. Judd's defense counsel, said he would await the arrival of Dr. Judd and that the two, after Dr. Judd had talked with the sheriff, would go to the state prison at Florence to confer with Mrs. Judd. Wilson said a petition for a rehearing of the case before the state supreme court, which on Monday denied the woman a new trial and set the date for execution, would be filed within the next thirteen days.

WASHINGTON AND BROWNS TRADE

By Alan Gould, New York, Dec. 14.—(AP)—In a scramble to swap player talent that has now assumed record-breaking proportions, the Washington and St. Louis clubs of the American League stole the spotlight of the baseball convention today with a spectacular six-player deal.

Tossing in a bundle of cash to bind the bargain, Washington regained the services of the slugging Goose Goslin, outfielder, along with Walter Stewart, ace southpaw pitcher, and Fred Schulte, another outfield star, in exchange for Lloyd Brown, sturdy left-handed hurler, and Sam West and Carl Reynolds, outfielders.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Veteran players on Notre Dame's football team know that thing called fame.

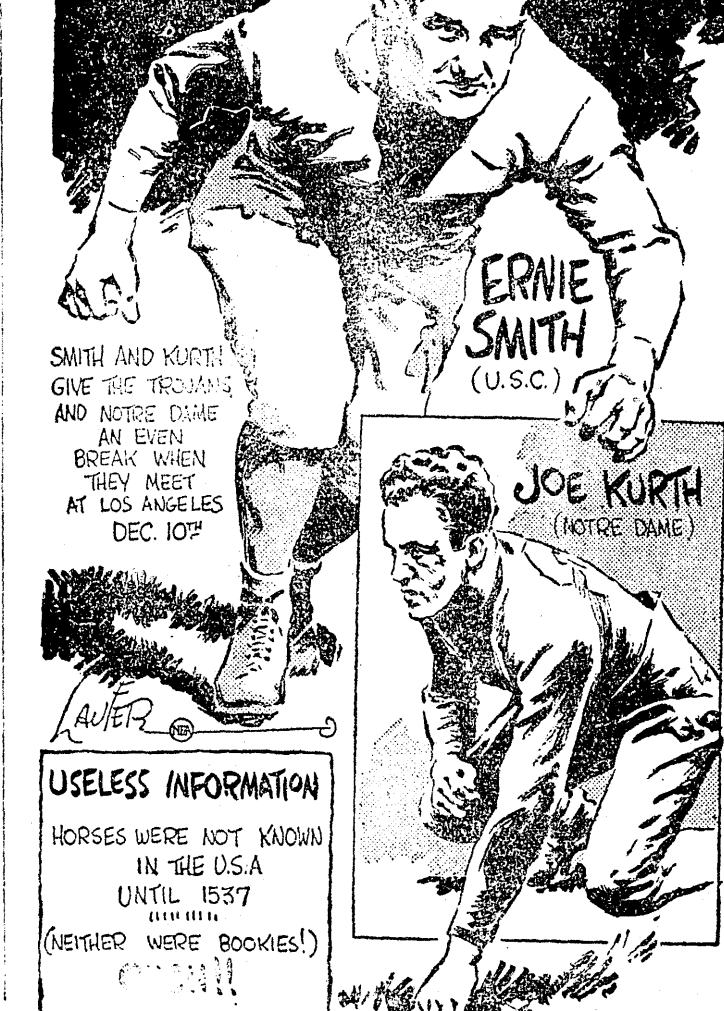

Two years ago they returned to Chicago as victors over Southern California, and one of the wildest sports demonstrations in years greeted them.

Today, the team came back in defeat, less than 200 fans at the stadium to cheer and most of them were close friends and relatives.

VETS PRESENT BONUS DEMAND IN WASHINGTON

Curtis and Garner Get Petitions From Veterans

Washington, Dec. 14.—(AP)—A radical war veterans group today handed to Vice-President Curtis and Speaker Garner petitions demanding bonus payment and censure of President Hoover, but Curtis struck out the censure.

When one unnamed petitioner refused to shake hands with the vice-president, told him, "Well, you can go to the devil."

The petitions were presented by representatives of the rank and file veterans, an organization springing from last spring's bonus army. It was an evolution of the latter that the presidential censure was included.

Samuel J. Stember, leader of the committee calling on Curtis, was stopped when he read down to that passage. Curtis told him to take it out. Stember refused and told the vice-president to do it. Curtis' pencil swiftly struck out the paragraph.

Speaker Garner had no conflict with his petitioners. They were headed by the Communist candidate for vice-president in the last election, James W. Ford, negro.

After presenting the petitions, at police orders the committees and a large delegation that had accompanied them to the capitol steps dispersed quietly.

Meanwhile, the McKellar resolution for an investigation of the bonus army eviction was referred today to the Senate military committee for study and report.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

Illinois has more than one million beef cows, but they are a losing enterprise on many farms, according to M. L. Mosher, of the department of agricultural economics, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. On almost every farm where a beef cow herd is made to pay, four practices are followed, he said. These facts are brought out in a study of records kept by hundreds of north central Illinois farmers who are cooperating with the college in the farm bureau-farm management service.

"First of all, on farms where beef cattle are made to pay, good beef type cows, either grade or purebred, are kept and mated to good purebred sires of one of the best breeds. Second, the herd is kept healthy. Cows that do not raise calves are sold, many such profitable herds, the cows are being tested regularly for Bang's disease, as well as for tuberculosis, and the reactors sold. Third, calves are fed shelled corn and oats in a creep as soon as they are old enough to eat and are pushed for an early market as fat calves or baby beef at from eight to fourteen months of age. Fourth, the cows are kept throughout the year on cheap feed.

"Failure to provide cheap food for the cows is where many beef herd owners are losing out. Cows on successful farms are kept almost entirely on pasture from early spring until the corn fields are cleaned up in the winter. On some farms there is enough unutilized pasture land to make use of the cows in the winter. Cows are kept to make use of legume pasture left down primarily for soil improvement.

"Winter feeding varies. Some farmers depend largely upon oats, straw and legume hay with a little grain. Some feed corn silage with straw and legume hay for a few weeks late in winter. It is easy to run up a heavy feed bill if corn silage is fed for many weeks. Some farmers depend upon silage made from cornstalks with the corn snapped off, straw, some hay and a little grain. The best herd is almost sure to be a loser if the cows are fed entirely on good hay and grain or corn silage throughout the winter instead of being given large proportions of cornstalks, straw and other cheap feed of a limited amount of protein supplements.

Fighters from all around went to it last night and out of the hothead of leather swinging came 20 fighters who will return tonight to battle it out for the Jacksonville and Courier championships in eight divisions at the Auto Inn. Such a flurry of slugging and boxing has never been seen in the city before, and it was the smallest fight crowd ever gathered. Officials of the tournament are looking forward to a big evening tonight when the championships will be decided and the medals awarded to the winners.

Jacksonville fighters came through the opening rounds of the tournament in fine style, qualifying at least one fighter in each of the eight divisions. Ten bouts are on the program for tonight bringing together some of the best boxing talent in Central Illinois.

Thirteen bouts were finished last night, and two of the semi-final bouts were carried over until tonight when all championships will be decided.

Three knock-outs featured the opening round of the tournament, and there was enough blood spilled to please the most rabid fans. There was no hesitation about swinging into action when the fighters entered the ring, and there was no delay at any time during the three rounds of battling.

Local Fighters Look Good.
Out of the melee of battling loomed the showing made by Clarence Robinson, colored lad who set the town talking in his last showing. Robinson met one of the toughest fighters in the tournament when he tackled Willis Munger, Illinois College football player, and after taking several hard hits during the opening round came back with a flurry of leather shooting to clinch the decision in the final round. Finesse, ability to slip the blows and to turn disadvantageous ring situations to his own advantage, made Robinson appear the most seasoned of the local punchers.

Robinson will have a hard match cut out for him tonight as he will meet the victor of the Dalton Stoker and R. V. Alexander, of Springfield. Stoker looked like a winner last night when he whipped Willie Jackson in another outstanding bout after three rounds of heavy socking. Stoker was awarded the decision at the close of the third round when Jackson was staggering to his corner.

Al Dieren, of Virginia, had to work harder than he has worked for some time to pound a decision over LaRue McKenzie, of Springfield, but was given a technical knock-out decision in the third round when McKenzie was unable to stand under the terrific barrage of punches the Virginia boy flung at him. The boys were slow getting into action in the first round, each shaking the other with hard shots to the face, but in the second round Dieren settled upon his plan of action and caused Mc-Kenzie around the ring, landing hard rights and lefts straight from the shoulder to make McKenzie grope at the close. McKenzie came back with a lot of fight in the third round and threw punches in Dieren's face and body, but the Virginia lad absorbed them and threw punches back just a little harder.

Work Ahead For Dieren.
Dieren will have his work cut out for him too, because John Jeffers, a lad who holds the corn shucking record for Morgan county, is out to grab off another title. He turned back two men last night with his careful left hand jabbing which he followed up with solid right hand smashes that took their toll by the time the rounds closed. Jeffers, appearing to be a novice in the ring, took his time about laying hands on his opponent in both bouts last night, but when he put them on, he meant for them to sting, and they usually did.

Dallas Smith, who has been fighting on and off for the past few years, stepped into the ring to grab the fastest victory of the opening round when he shelled Ronald Marshall to the floor in the first round with a sudden bombardment of rights and lefts that flew like magic, shaking the Beardstown youth and flooring him in quick time. Marshall hit the canvas twice before taking the count, the last time with a resounding smack that finished the knock-out when his head cracked the floor.

The opening battle, between Jimmie Shepherd, of Springfield, and Paul Koullitis, of Springfield, was a real opener, for these two youngsters put on a real scrappy bout. Willie Barber polished off his Springfield opponent, Paul Koullitis, in the second bout, coming from behind in the last two rounds to win.

Charles Huddleston, deaf lad, defeated Emmett Kibby in a fight that could have gone either way. The deaf lad hammered Kibby over the head with hard shots, but Kibby rolled away from everything else. Kibby slipped in several hard punches, but lost points when the officials scored for aggressiveness.

PRESSGRAIN PRICES
SCORE ADVANCE

By John P. Boughan
Associated Press Market Editor
Chicago, Dec. 14.—(U.S. Dept. of Agric.)—Unsettled by a fall of France to pay on her wheat grain markets today turned sharply to other price-making factors, and scored an advance.

At no time did Chicago wheat values today show a decline of more than a fraction of a cent a bushel. Late strength of the New York stock market was credited with helping wheat upward in the late dealings.

With most operators here awaiting the Washington government final report tomorrow on 1932 domestic crops, and with trade lacking volume, wheat closed firm at the day's top level, unchanged to 3 higher compared with yesterday's finish, corn a shade to 3 up, oats unchanged to 3 off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 17 cents.

Transient slight setbacks in the Chicago wheat market today were associated with reports of unusual selling pressure at Winnipeg and Liverpool. Much of the Winnipeg selling was reported to be of a stop-loss character and due to uneasiness of rural holders of Canadian elevator storage tickets. Under this influence and also apparently affected by evidence of competition from Argentina in European markets, Winnipeg prices to the lowest ever known, and European quotations too were at about record bottoms.

Some alleviation of wheat strain at Winnipeg was ascribed to supporting activities by Canadian government-sponsored agencies. It was asserted in Winnipeg that export purchasing in Canada now even inadequate to offset in full degree the effects of distressed selling. Meanwhile, predictions of another cold in domestic winter wheat territory continue to be current, and there was also talk that price buyers were now on a below-cost basis.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat, moving early and rallying at the last. Provisions were steadied by hog market upturns.

Closely indeterminate: wheat, Dec. 44, bid; May 47-48; July 47-48; Aug. 47-48; Corn, May 27-28; 27-28.

Sez Hugh: THREE GUESSES

J. H. S. STUDENTS VISIT JOURNAL-COURIER PLANT

About 75 students of the high school, members of English, Journalism and General Science classes, visited the Journal and Courier plant Wednesday morning. They were accompanied by Miss Clara Smith of the high school faculty. The students were taken through the plant in groups.

They visited first the Associated Press automatic printers, which were explained to them by a member of the staff. They were shown the mechanics of the printer operation and were told how the copy comes over the wire. They were then taken to the composing room, where they traced a piece of news copy through the processes of typesetting and printing.

Week-end MURDER

GABRIELLE E. FORBUSH

BEGIN HERE TODAY
LINDA AVERILL, belle of her elderly cousin, AXOS PEARBODY, was murdered when he fell from the second story of his home, the Averill Long Island home because of a few words he uttered before his death. Linda, his daughter, is one of the girls who are trying to find out who killed her father.

There are four guests in the house—all suspects of the crime. They are: MR. STANLANDER, business associate of TOM AVERILL; CAPTAIN DE VOS, handsome Belgian; MARVIN PHATT, former editor of the Journal; and LINDA SHAUGHNESSY, Irish writer. Since there is no evidence on which to base an arrest, Linda and Tom, her husband, agree they must keep the four men in the house until they have discovered who is guilty. They pretend to believe the death was an accident. They are aided in their plan when DR. BOYLE, a medical examiner, sends word that everyone must remain until he has questioned them. Boyle is on a fishing trip and can not return for several hours.

Linda finds the towel with which the attempt was made to strangle her father. It is a towel of a blue color. It was in Stanlander's bathroom. The overhauling of the house, however, failed to find a shirt. Shaughnessy about a shirt. She has promised to launder. Tom believes this shirt may be an important clue.

Linda talks to Shaughnessy which Tom goes to have a look at the shirt, forgetting that Shaughnessy is standing in such a way that he can see him. When Tom returns Shaughnessy says coolly, "I hope you found what you were looking for."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXI
WITH a little bow Shaughnessy turned on his heel and went through the screen door so quickly that the two behind him were left breathless.

Tom recovered first. Hastily he stepped to where the Irishman had been standing by the table. "By heaven!" exclaimed Tom. "Yes—he could. The light's gone now but there was a little, outside at least."

"I could see him—just a blot of dark, moving—walking across the road and going into the garage. He was standing here, wasn't he?"

"Yes. With his back to the door. I thought—"

"You did the best you could, honey. Just a damned bad break. He saw me and there was light enough to see that I didn't go in the big double doors where the cars are. I should have, of course—fool that I am!—and up the stairs from inside. Instead, I dashed right in the central door and came out from there too. He knew I didn't go near the car but upstairs to his place. Oh, curse the luck! That's bad, Linda!"

"Yes. Did you—how did you leave it?"

"The shirt? Just as it was, I think. But Linda—another queer thing! That wasn't any shirt of his. That was one of mine."

"Tom—are you sure?"

"Sure as you'd be of a dress of yours. That one with the fancy braid."

"Now will you please explain that? Tom, have you any idea—?"

SHE moved to touch his arm. The gesture was a consoling one but she needed the sense of support herself.

"I'm absolutely in the dark about it."

"Tom—we mustn't leave Mr. Stanlander out there on the terrace alone. Can't we talk this over later? I want to tell you what he said—"

"Suppose he bores?"

"Mr. Stanlander?"

"Shaughnessy, of course!"

"Oh! My mind's on the other one. You ought to go talk to him. I'll run up and see Rosie—you said she was crying."

"Bawling, poor kid. Didn't notice me or was too upset to try to hide it. Linda, her room faces the garage. Watch his light."

"All right." In the dark he felt a quick kiss on his cheek. "Don't worry, Tom. I'll join you soon. But for goodness sake, flatter Mr. Stanlander and keep him quiet till I can talk to you. I had him quite duttery when you came back. He's no innocent darling, either—plenty subtle. Don't quarrel with him, whatever you do!"

"What do you think I am?" retorted Tom indignantly forgetting his sweeping self-contempt of a moment before. As he started out the casement door Linda looked after him indulgently. He certainly was having a rough time, poor dear! She walked slowly up the steps, wishing she could have a little time to herself, alone and undisturbed.

At the last step, she came to a decision. It might be foolish—and was—but it was action and that seemed called for. Cheered by her resolution, she knocked briskly at Rosie's door and called.

"Rosie—it's Mrs. Averill. Might I come in a moment?"

There was a subdued flutter and a fearful voice answered something she did not get, but she heard a creak of bedsprings and the sound of someone moving. Then the door opened and Linda acted on her instant impulse of sympathy.

"Rosie, dear child—whatever's the matter? Let me come in. There! Sit down and tell me all about it!"

IT was hard for Rosie to get started. Never fluent, she seemed baffled completely. Finally, in a sudden burst of reliance and confidence, the story came blurring out. Stripped of its incoherence and repetitions, it was brief enough. She had launched upon a guilty yet delicious flirtation with Shaughnessy. The breakfast tray of the first morning had proved its beginning. Later, vastly flattered that he preferred her to the "quality," Rosie had agreed to meet him on the pine path the night of the dance. ("But I wasn't there over-long," Linda believed her. "Annoyed" had known it'd stayed out far into the night.") At last, fearing Annie's reproaches for herself and possible trouble for him, Rosie had sent him back to the club grounds. That is, she had started that way and she had hurried back to the house. He could, Linda perceived, have tarried there longer alone or briefly joined the dance, and, finding someone more willing for a prolonged solitary flirtation, returned to the shelter of the trees. As Rosie went on with her story, Linda inclined to the latter idea.

For before breakfast the next morning Shaughnessy had come to the kitchen door with a bundle and a petition. He had spilled liquor on the front of his evening shirt, torn it slightly and smeared grass stains into the cuff.

"'Tis poor he is, for all the grand looks of him," said Rosie naively. "And proud that ye should not know he has but the wan shirt. Sure, 'tis the Irish know how to be poor with intelligence, an' glad I was to do him the service without any way help the wiser for it. But," and again her voice was choked, "'tis the devil's own luck, begin' yer pardon, ma'am, seems to haunt the affair. First, I tried some of the clan's duds myself as after givin' me for spots on the tablecloth an' fine it worked fur the liquor. But when it hit the grass stains a terrible color it turned him intirely! Worse yet, when I come to slap it with a hot iron, whole paces of cloth came away under me hand."

Conflicting emotions chased through Linda's mind but her face showed only sympathetic attention.

"Well!" she exclaimed. "That was a mess! But it wasn't your fault, Rosie!"

"Oh, but—'twas mine that I made matters worse, ma'am. I was frantic-like, you see, an' how I'd know he'd stay quietly in the house this evening an' not need the dress clothes, at all, at all?" She hesitated, then plunged.

"'Tis a thief I am, ma'am—me as ye've always threatened so fair!"

"Mr. Averill's shirt?" asked Linda calmly. Rosie turned, eyes round with astonishment, and spoke in an awed whisper.

"Himself has missed it already!"

"In a way," Linda hedged. "But never mind, Rosie. I don't blame you. You didn't want Mr.

Shaughnessy to be embarrassed and you tried to save his face. Mr. Averill would gladly have left him a shirt but he wouldn't have wanted it know—and if he had worn the one you gave him and just left it with you when he went you could have returned it without Mr. Averill being any the wiser."

ROSIE'S eyes were grateful. "That's what I thought, ma'am. But 'twas wrong of me to do it without his knowin'!"

Linda patted the rouged hand. "There, Rosie! It's over and no harm done. Now I've an idea that will make everything all right. I'll tell Mr. Shaughnessy I happened to find you working on the shirt and told you to try the cleaning fluid. As it was spoiled when you did what I suggested, it would be up to me to make up the loss to him and I told you to send one of Mr. Averill's till I could get another."

Rosie shook her head. "I swore to tell no-man of it," she said. "And this afternoon he knew it was done an' ready for the ironin'. I must tell him meself!" she sighed dejectedly.

Linda suppressed a smile. Poor, honest, friendly Rosie, so easily wheedled (and doubtless forgotten) by her far more skillful countryman! Though she could not help feeling more lenient toward Shaughnessy, she knew he had shamelessly made use of Rosie's good nature. Suddenly she stood up. A light in the upper floor of the garage had gone out.

"Rosie, you and Annie had planned to go to the movies to-night, hadn't you?" she asked. Rosie nodded and then shook her head, indicating that she had been but wasn't. "Oh, yes, you are!" Linda understood the pantomime perfectly. "Dr. Boyle isn't coming so you needn't stay home for him and you both need a little change to take your minds off the excitement of today. Was the Freeman's chauffeur going to take you over to Port?"

Rosie nodded. The tears magically stopped but she paused like a child midway between grief and pleasure.

"Well, then—tell Annie to telephone him while you wash your face and brush your hair. And trust me to fix this up somehow."

The look of the big, row-bowed young girl turned up to her was frankly adoring. Linda never skimped praise for fear of "spoiling" the girls but when she gave it she meant every word, and they knew it.

"The saints bless you, ma'am," replied Rosie fervently.
